New opportunities for Learning

Academic qualifications are typically classroom-based qualifications which are assessed externally through formal exams or moderated coursework, whereas vocational qualifications are typically taught in a hands-on manner and assessed internally by the tutor or trainer throughout the course, via the completion of practical assignments.

The BTEC vocational qualifications are work-related qualifications offered by PEARSON EDEXCEL, suitable for a wide range of learners, built to accommodate the needs of employers and also allow progression to university. They provide a more practical, real-world approach to learning alongside a key theoretical background in a particular field of study.

With their strong emphasis on developing practical skills inculcating specialist knowledge and understanding for a particular sector, BTEC Higher Nationals are recognised internationally by employers as providing learners with the key concepts and practical skills for direct progression to, or within, employment.
